

Major Storms Preceding Major Earthquake

John Paul Jackson prophecy about California, from April 2011

JOHN PAUL JACKSON:

There is an earthquake that has been predicted to devastate California, meaning skyscrapers are going to fall, the shape of the United States will change after that earthquake. But that won't happen 'till after there's a storm. A major storm is going to come to California. It's either a hurricane of incredible force, or it is a storm of incredible force. But a great, great hurricane or incredible force is going to come to California and the earthquake that destroys it will not happen 'til after that takes place. So there's a way of saying, "Okay, I have time," but that doesn't mean it will be an earthquake tomorrow of 7.5. You know, or in the next week or two weeks from now, of some magnitude but I'm talking about one that changes the shape of California where you don't want to live in California, anywhere in California, when that happens, or perhaps even the most of the most of the West Coast. Where an inland ocean is formed and Baja becomes an island and the mouth of the inland ocean forms between San Diego and Los Angeles. That isn't going to happen before that storm comes, and so that is a sign that God is giving the people. Don't worry about that big one because this this sign will happen will happen first. So there's a lot of things going to get ready to happen.
